LOUISVILLE AND HER PROSPECTS .- The vote of the stockholders of the Louisville and Frankfort Railroad Company directing a subscription of $100,-000 to the Lexington and Big Sandy Railroad proves that our people are beginning to see at once the necessities and the felicities of the position of isville. The combined influence of dry and cold seasons in destroying the navigation of the Ohio river, and the extraordinary enterprise of the States and cities north and south of Kentucky in constructing magnificent systems of railroads at an enormous cost, have left Louisville, as it were, like some of the Ohio river steamboats in low water, high and dry upon a sand-bar, while the commerce and travel of the country have been forced to pass around us. This state of things has quickened into lively exercise the peculiar gifts of all the croakers, who take so much pleasure in predicting the ruin and desertion of the city.

All who are capable of understanding the rest facts of the case must see that there is not the slightest reason for fear or despondency in regard to the future of Louisville. The very exigency of our position, produced by the facts above-mentioned, is just the stimulus that was required to arouse the sluggish energies of our people. Their intelligence and energy, if promptly exercised, will proceed to demonstrate that the commercial position of Louisville is really more happy and more distinguished than was ever before supposed; for by the construction of two railroads, at a cost comparatively insignificant, Louisville is placed at once in complete and thorough connection with the entire network of the Northern and Southern systems of railroads. The short line to Indianapolis, having the additional advantage that there is not the usual obstruction of a river hill to overcome, puts her in connecting with the Northern system. The Nashville road, with its branch to Memphis. will make this a prominent point not only in the general Southern connection, but especially in relation to that greatest work of all, the Southern Pacific road, already commenced, and sure to be completed. When we add to this the fair prospect of a connection, by the Big Sandy Railroad, with the great railroad systems of Virginia and Maryland, it is impossible not to see that Louisville now occupies a position more enviable and more promising in regard to her future prosperity than was ever claimed

The only danger is that the people are not yet sufficiently aware of the pressing exigencies of our position on the one hand, and of the extraordinary felicities of that position on the other. To avert the impending disasters of the one, and to secure the advantages of the other, will require the exhibition of all the energy and resources that we can command. The Nashville road must be forced through at once. No sacrifice that can be made for that purpose will bear any comparison with the seneficent results to be secured. It would be better to sell the bonds of the city for fifty cents, and issue another million, than permit this work to linger along until our capital has been removed to other points, and the most active and enterprising of our citizens, tired of waiting, have gone to cities where activity and enterprise may secure immediate reward. No city can afford to wait until salt is atrewed over its streets for any advantages, however great, in the future. It is a necessity for Louisville that the Nashville road be completed, and a branch to the coal fields be constructed within eighteen months. With the progress and preparation already made there will be no difficulty in accomplishing this but he want of funds, and of the skill and enthem. Let it be the business of the President and Directors, aided by the hearty cooperation of the city, to see that both are provided.

From the peculiar circumstances referred to, the actual cost of this important road at the most extravagant estimate, and throwing in all the errors and frauds that have heretofore been committed will be as nothing compared with the results to be accomplished by it. Just so soon as the connection is completed the mere profits of the road itself will be unparalleled in this section of country. and its beneficial effects upon Louisville and the country through which the road passes will be far beyond any calculation. We do not intend to let this subject rest; and we hope every citizen will canvass it freely, until the speedy completion of this great and indispensable work shall be realized.

Few poets in the nation have won so high a eputation as Minnie:

(For the Louisville Jonenal 1 THE EMERALD RING. They have hung them o'er the gilded walls, Rich wreaths of fair young flowers, And the light of lamps falls dreamily In soft and silvery showers: And the air hath a wealth of fragrance rich As vales of Araby,
While the waves of sound float softly 'round, With music in each sigh.

There are noble guests in the festal hall; There are mon with silver hair, There are matrons smiling gravely sweet, There are youths and maidens fair; There are laughing lips and beaming brows And cheeks with the rose-hue dyed; There are eyes all bright with love's soft light, To greet the fair young bride!

With a sigh upon her dimpled lips. And eyes that smile through tears, Neath the floating folds of her silvery veil The blushing bride appears
In a simple robe, and her gems are flowers,
Pale buds of the early spring— Not a jewel she wore of all her store Save one bright emerald ring.

'Twasa merry throng, and the swift hours flew Till the deep midnight came on, When a wild, wild cry rang through the hall, For the bride, the bride was gone! And they sought her long, but sought in vain, For tidings none could bring.
But beside the door, on the moonlit floor,
Gleamed up the emerald ring!

As of one that's dead they thought of her, And they wept most bitter tears, And her two sweet sisters pined alone But again a stranger came to woo, And the bridal feast was spread, And they found once more on the caken flow The ring, and the bride had fled!

Then a third time came the wedding guests, And a fair young bride was there, With a rose-red cheek and violet eyes And glossy, golden hair; But, as some strange spell had bound her soul To prize the fatal thing, Not a gem she wore of all her store Save the same bright emerald ring!

'Twas the midnight hour, and the dance went on, And the gayest of the gay

While the bright hours flew away! While the bright hours flew away!
But the strange, wild blast of a huntsman's horn
Floats up on the passing gale,
And they panse to hear with a sudden fear,
And the bride's fair cheek grows pale!

Then a clang of heavy hoofs is heard, And in their midst is seen, On a coal-black steed with hounds and horn, A huntsman dressed in green; With a bold, strong arm he clasps the bride, Blows one wild, ringing blast, And with home and hound o'er the echoing ground With lightning speed they passed!

'Twas a strange, deep awe smote every guest, And the gray-haired father wept, But he gathered up the glittering gem, And long the treasure kept; And oft as he gazed on the jewel's face, Alone in the midnight dim, Strange words glowed bright in its mystic light. Which none might read but his

FAIRMOUNT, Sept. 1, 1856.

MINNIE. WATER WORKS .- We publish to-day a communication in reference to water-works and manufactories. The writer proposes to make use of the water-power of the falls for raising the water from the river and forcing it to a reservoir, and also to turn the same power to profitable use by applying it to a succession of mills and factories. This plan appears feas ible, and certainly deserves consideration. We are not sufficiently familiar with the laws of hy drostatics and engineering to give any opinion as to the practicability of establishing water works in the manner proposed, but we are sure that the water power of the falls can be made available for manufacturing purposes. We have understood that one object to be kept in view in the selection of a site for the engine house to raise the water, is to place it at a sufficient distance above the city to procure pure water, uncontaminated with the filth and drainage of our streets and sewers. This may be of itself as insuperable objection to the location proposed by our correspondent. It seems too that to force the water from the lock of the canal to a reservoir situated upon the Blind Asylum hill would involve a very great waste of power. Whatever may be done in reference to the water works, we are satisfied that the application of the power of the falls in some way to manufacturing purposes would be a profitable investment. Even Lowell, the great manufacturing town of Massachusetts, possesses no such advantages of water power as are found in the vicinity of the Falls of the Ohio. We hope this project will be fully considered and canvassed by those who are experienced in such matters, and that this power will be promptly turned to profitable account. The eminent success of the extensive flouring mill of Smith & Smyser, upon the Indiana shore, has given a practical evidence of the immense power which might at very little cost be made to minister to our advantage on both banks of the Ohio. We cannot call attention to this matter too early. By the time when mills and manufactories can be erected and put in operation, our Railroad connections North and East and West and South will be very nearly completed, and we shall have here a market already prepared for all the manufactures that can be produced.

SMASHING A GROG-SHOP .- On Sunday night, the 18th inst., in Logansport, Ind., Judge Wright and R. T. Parish entered a grocery and demolished all the liquors, glasses, &c. The proprietor had sold nough liquor to two young sons of these gentlemen to make them very drunk; hence the destruction. Judge W. had previously suffered greatly by the dissipation of an elder son.

We desire again to draw the attention of our citizens to the subject of the foundation of public dispensaries. The class of persons that these institutions are designed to reach is not the poorest. They are not the miserable creatures who chiefly all our hospitals and alms-houses, but a more intelligent and worthy class of people. The pressure and demoralization of poverty must be great indeed to give to pauperism the unfortunate character to which crime is so nearly allied. There is another class of people who in ordinary times have all the necessities and most of the comforts of life around them, who, when want comes, part with their selfrespect, the last of all their household gods.

Every man shrinks from the cold charity of the alms-house for himself, and shudders at the pros pect for his family. How much would you, gentle reader, suffer before you would go to an hospital, and see your wife or children go to the alms-house? There are few seasons of so great severity or com mercial depression that an industrious people cannot secure the wherewithal to feed and clothe their families; but let sickness come, can a respectable laborer or mechanic go to the alms-house, or send any member of his family there? If he does, the very act demoralizes him heart and soul, and the occasion for it should be removed. If in such circumstances a kindly physician should say, "Sir, I will attend you, I will give you medicines," would not that act in almost every instance meet his want? This is what a dispensary is intended to do.

The city is divided into districts. Any one living in the district can, on application to the dispensary, or at the physician's residence, be visited by the physician, and the prescription is filled by the apothecary of the dispensary. Besides this, physicians and surgeons will be in attendance for certain hours in the day at the consulting-rooms of the institution to prescribe for those who are able to

These dispensaries are matters of great economy to the city, for by thus affording timely medical aid many cases of sickness are nipped in the bud, and are thus prevented from running into that stage and severity which make a removal to the hospital indispensably necessary. Surely an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

TRADE OF EVANSVILLE .- Messrs. George Foster & Co. have published in a neat circular a succinct but complete review of the trade of our enterprising little sister city down the river. Evansville is rep resented as having never been in a more flourishing condition than during the year 1856. The annual exports exceeded in value nine and a half million dollars, although the state of the river and canal both was very unfavorable. The benefits of railroad communication have been rendered apparent by the business brought to the city by the only line in operation. From this State Evansville received 7,500 hogsheads of tobacco which should have been brought to Louisville. Manufactures prosper from the great fact that fuel is abundant and cheap-the current rates having been from $1 75 to $2 for wood and six to eight cents per bushel for coal. There are in operation two founderies and two others in construction; six flouring mills; one furniture factory; one paper mill, and eight sawing and planing mills

There are indeed few places in the West exhibiting more healthy signs of progress than Evansville. That city appears destined to be the commercial emporium of Indiana, although New Albany will energetically dispute the palm.

Santa Anna's proposition to re-establish mon archy in Mexico, with a Spanish prince as sovereign, on condition that the Spanish government would aid and support him in the execution of the project, appears to have encountered general contempt. It has been ridiculed and scouted by Mexicans, Spaniards, Americans, English, French, and all the rest of the world. It deserved nothing better. A wilder or sillier scheme never entered the head of an unprincipled schemer. Santa Anna's day is evidently over. He has lost even the faculty of intriguing We commend him to the tranquil shades of Cartha-

STARTLING DISCOVERIES IN THE EAST. - The Beirut correspondent of the Boston Traveller gives a very full and graphic sketch of the discovery of the remains of the Tower of Babel by Mr. Place the French Consul at Mosul. The ruins are situa ted in or near the famous field of Arbela, and are said to be in a state of remarkable preservation. The Traveller's correspondent grows eloquent in portraying them, as thousands all over Christendom will soon grow logical at the same task.

GREAT NATIONAL TRIAL OF MACHINERY AND IMPLEMENTS.—The committee of the United States Agricultural Society, appointed at the fifth annual meeting, held at the Smithsonian Institution in the city of Washington, on the 14th of January, "to designate the time and to make all the necessary ar rangements for a national trial in the field of agriculthral implements and machinery," have invited the inventors and manufacturers of all such articles. both in the United States and foreign countries, to participate in a public trial to be made at Louisville. Ky., under the auspices of the Sociecy, during the

It is on ground as broad as Milton has here taken in recommending a refining popular culture, a wisdom and an entertainment for a whole people, that demonstrative oratory may be well worthy of consideration and support at this time among ourselves. Our courses of public lectures in town and country accord very well with this idea; and, though once a doubtful experiment, they are now regarded as a means of supplying a general want. Their uses are obvious. In a social view, the mere bringing people together to have their minds refreshed by truth, and their tastes gratified by simple, intellectual pleasures, is of itself civilizing. It is a very favorable sign of the times that audiences can be collected evening after evening with no livelier temptation.

The purpose of such lectures cannot be to furnish a great amount of exact knowledge, which will be retained and used like that which we amass in our private studies. Their object, I suppose, is partly to hold a sort of conversation with men upon what they are already to some extent acquainted with, in order that they may compare their ideas with those of a fellow-inquirer, and be assisted to take comprehensive views of subjects which they had examined by themselves very much in detail. Generally, no doubt, the effect is to stimulate those who are in the habit of thinking and inquiring to wake up the less intellectual, and to make whole communities feel that they have other matters of common interest than the affairs of their towns and families.

This estimate, although moderate, appears to both just and philosophical.

Read the letters of our Washington correscondent. They are interesting.

WEATHER PROPHETS .- The character of the wea ther perplexes the wisest of those far-seeing proph ets who have heretofore gained reputation by sagacious and solemn predictions. They are all complete ly nonplussed, and the venerable Meriam of Brook lyn, who has made meteorology a study for half a life time, owns up that he even cannot foretell what a day will bring forth. Nevertheless, there are a certain class of wiseacres who indulge themselves in the inoffensive amusement of prognosticating the weather. One of these persons is very certain, from a careful examination and comparison of all the signs, that the intense cold weather will continue until the 15th of February, and that then there will be a general break-up. The Dutch Almanac, which is a profound treatise udon different subjects, says that the coldest weather of the year will be in February. As Father Ritchie would have said: nous

AN AMERICAN DRAMATIC ENTERPRISE.-Henry C. Jarrett, Esq., of Baltimore, has left for England on a novel and spirited expedition. He goes with the intention to present to the British public the performances of a first-class American dramatic ompany in one of the principal theatres of London for six weeks, during our theatrical vacation this summer. The project is a bold one, requiring the utmost care and circumspection, not only in the selection of the personnel of the corps, but in the management of so original an affair. From the known perseverence and indomitable energy of the manager, his inventive resources and good judgment, he has all that he requires for success. We understand that Mr. Jarrett expects to conclude his arrangements in London and return by the first of March.

FORGERY AND EXTENSIVE ROBBERT IN NEW YORK .- A man named Durham attempted a forge ry on the Bank of Commerce, New York, on Saturday, by presenting a check for $6,426, purporting to have been drawn by the President of the Judd Linseed and Sperm Oil Company. On Monday it was discovered that another forged check, ostensibly drawn by the same company, for $4,400 had been presented and certified as good.

The office of the Judd Oil Company was entered between Saturday night and Monday morning and robbed of business paper and Illinois Central Railroad Bonds to the value of $75,000. It is supposed the robbery was committed by some persons acquainted with the house.

TRANSIENT PRINTED MATTER .- For the information of the public, as well as of postmasters, we state that neither the act of Aug. 30, 1852, nor that of January 2, 1857, regards newspapers or periodicals regularly mailed to bona fide subscribers as "tronsent printed matter." Agents, as well as publishers, may therefore regularly mail them to such subscribers without prepayment of postage; provided the agent makes and files in the mailing office a statement, signed by him, showing the names of the newspapers or periodicals which he thus mails, the offices to which they are sent respectively, and the number of actual subscribers to each at each office to which they are directed.

Robert H. Glass, former editor of the Lynchburg Republican, is spoken of for the associate editorship of the Washington Union, with Mr. Appleton. He is reported to be in high favor with Mr. Buchanan, having supported him as his first choice for Pres- his boat had passed the Eclipse under headway, and ident at the last two National Conventions. Mr. Glass is a thorough States' Rights man of the old Democratic school, and is said to be under the influence of neither Wise nor Hunter. A SLEIGH RIDE UPON THE ICE. -Yesterday afternoon a party of six adventurous gentlemen, com- characters who recently escaped from the Madison osed of lawyers, bankers, &c., formed themselves into an extempore exploring expedition under the command of Captain William Boots, and, procuring a fine sleigh, took to the middle of the river. Then they turned their team's heads up stream and drove beyond six-mile island within view of the boats that are confined in the ice. The ride was found to be delightful over a smooth, glossy, and solid surface. This will doubtless prove the first of a series of trips upon this newly discovered sleighing track.

The important suit brought by the State of Texas against the firm of R. & D. G. Mills was decided in the District Court at Galveston on the 14th inst., the jury bringing in a verdict of guilty, and assessing the penalty at $100,000. It appears the suit was brought by the State to recover penalties from the defendants for having, in violation of the law of Texas, issued drafts to circulate as money in the State.

TELEGRAPHIC .- The most important intelligence by the Persia is the settlement of the difficulty between Switzerland and Prussia and the adjournment of the Paris convention.

The advices from Nicaragua by the James Adger confirm those previensly received by the Texas at New Orleans.

Two thousand five hundred tickets are hereafter to be added to the number to be issued at each drawing of the Havana lottery. During the last year the government of the Island of Cuba realized over one million dollars from this source.

We have received our New York and Baltinore mails up to Wednesday evening. They are almost entirely occupied with accounts of the violent snow storms, the detention of railroad trains, and disasters along the Atlantic coast.

The fall of snow on Saturday afternoon furnished another basis for sleighing amusements, which was eagerly taken advantage of by crowds of fast young men.

The stock of cotton at Mobile on the 17th inst., was 200,000 bales. All the warehouses and vacant lots in the city were occupied, and still there was not sufficient room.

The arrests by the police for the past few days have been principally of persons found drunk in the streets. To prevent their freezing to death they have been confined in the watch-house.

We see the name of Lieut. Wm. B. Hite, of this city, published in the official reports as having been killed in Nicaragua. Col. E. H. McDonald is among the wounded.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

EVENING BULLETIN.

The weather has moderated very much. The owest point the thermometer has reached during the past forty-eight hours was 9 above zero. We had another fall of snow on Saturday. Matters about the river remain unchanged. The Jeffersonville ferry-boats are again running regularly and on Saturday morning they made the connection with the early train. Teams are crossing on the ice, and yesterday a party went up to the Six-Mile Island in a two-horse sleigh. The New Albany ferry-boats are not running. Ou Saturday sleighs were crossing there on the ice. The boats at Portland are being unloaded, in compliance with the resolution passed at the meeting of the board of underwriters.

Loss of the Ningara .- The principal talk by steamoat men, yesterday was the loss of the steamer Niagara, one of finest and largest boats belonging to this port. The news of the disaster was received on Saturday evening by telegraph from Memphis. The N. was commanded by Capt. Spotts. She arrived at Cairo week before last, and, finding the Ohio closed by ice, reshipped her up-river freight on the David White and took on a cargo for New Orleans. She left Cairo with over a hundred cabin passengers and a considerable number of mules. Near Island 34, which is a short distance above Randolph, Tennessee, she got aground. She lay there for several days, during which time the river was falling steadily and the ice, which was running very heavy, accumulated around her. Capt. Spotts hailed the Empress for assistance, but, as that boat was darwing a good deal of water and had also a valuable cargo, Capt. Sturgeon could not comply with the request, but he meeting the Alconia shortly after requested her captain to go to the N.'s assistance. The dispatch gives no particulars of the disaster, but states merely that the boat was broken in two. It is supposed that no lives were lost. Among the passengers on the Niagara were Capt. Spotts's family, Miss Emma Knight, Miss Joyes, and others of this city.

The Niagara was owned here, had made two very accessful seasons, and last summer her owners had expended about $10,000 on her for repairs. She was one of the most popular and elegant boats in the trade. She was insured in the different local offices in this city for $40,000. We do not know where her cargo was insured.

The Highflyer.-We are glad to learn that this steamer, the sinking of which at the Grand Chain, in the Ohio, we announced on Friday, will probably be raised. Capt. Smith, of the Daniel Boone, who was on board of the H. when the accident occurred, informs the Cincinnati Commercial that she struck on the reef known as the "Jackson Rocks," at the larboard knuckle, opening a couple of her seams some thirty or forty feet in length, and taking from eighteen inches to two feet of water in her hold. From thirty to forty comforts and blankets were imnedlately stuffed into the openings, and, by good imping, Capt. Wright succeeded in stopping the eak so that one pump will keep her free. Captain Smith thinks she can be easily lighted off, and once free from the rocks can return to Paducah for repairs. The ice, however, had piled up around her, but a gorge a shord distance above protected her. A portion of her freight cast overboard, was 150 bales of Tennessee cotton-the same that was met floating in the river below Cairo, by the Empress.

Capt. Leathers, of the steamer Natchez, has a card in the Natchez Free Trader, in which he says that he offers to bet $20,000 or more that the Natchez can beat any boat on the Mississipyi river, and $20,000 or more that the Princess can beat any other

ARREST OF FUGITIVE PRISONERS .- Yesterday afternoon Chas. Talbert and Bennett, two notorious iail, were arrested in the upper part of the city, and lodged in prison. They were found frequenting houses of ill fame. Officers Rust, Curry, and Deer ing made the arrest.

A SINGULAR MARRIAGE .- In Allen county, on the 15th inst., Mr. John Ashford, over seventy years of age, was married to Miss Julia Ann Shirley, aged eighteen. The same ceremony made a daughter of the old man the wife of another person.

We are requested by Mr. J. V. Varnum to state that his connection with the publishers of the Daily Evening Visitor has been dissolved from this date by mutual consent of all parties.

Such is the scarcity of fuel that yesterday the nain halls in most of the churches were closed, and religious services were held in the basements or session rooms.

[For the Louisville Journal.] WATER WORKS.

MR. EDITOR: We have the finest water power in the Western country, and to many persons it is matter of astonishment that such facilities for manufacturing should have been neglected so long. By means of the canal adready made, this immense water power is almost ready to be let on to the wheels of the manufacturer. The low land extending from the upper lock on the present canal down to Portland is believed to be nothing but clay or earth without any rock, down to the level of the water in the canal.

Now, how easy would it be to dig a race or canal ten or fifteen feet wide, from the upper lock, and parallel with the river, two or three hundred yards in the direction of Portland; and from this race a short cut to the river for a tailrace. This would give us a "head of water" equal to twenty feet, and in quantity equal to ten thousand horse power, if required.

Let the machinery for raising water from the river be

reet, and in quantity equal to ten thousand horse power, if required.

Let the machinery for raising water from the river be placed at this point, and a superstructure of brick or stone be erected over or near it, say one hundred feet high, or higher if necessary. Within this tower place two or more pipes, one to convey the water up to the top, but inside of the roof to prevent freezing, and the other to convey it down to the ground pipes. Lay a large pipe thence through Main street to the hill at or near the Blind Asylum to the large reservoir. From this large pipe the entire length of Main street could be supplied with water, and the groft meservoir besides.

Not only could we supply our own city thus, but we could supply New Albany, Portland, Shippingport, and even Jeffersonville, far cheaper than they can ever be supplied in the usual way, or each having a separate water works.

Further, by extending the race to Portland, every fifty feet of its length may be sold for a mill of some kind or other, and thus not only supply ourselves with the best and most extensive water works in the world, but also derive from it an immense revenue for water power. It is believed that this plan can be put in operation for not much more than one half the cost of steam machinery, and that the subsequent cost to run it will not equal the twentieth part of the cost of steam.

If our water company will not adopt the water power, I do hope and trust that some enterprising man or company will take it in hand, and thus avail themselves and the community of one of the greatest and cheapest powers for manufacturing in the world. Fifty men can dig the race before the machinery for raising the water and the pipes to convey it can be prepared. But for the fear of making this article too long, I would take up and answer every objection that I have heard to the plan. But I trust that the people will think of this matter, and am their very obedient servant.

MONDAY EVENING, JAN. 26, 1857.

THE MONUMENT OF A HERO .- A half century ago, the man in Kentucky, next to Henry Clay, most endeared to the people of the State by reason of his extraordinary eloquence, his fine genius, his extensive knowledge, and unblemished chivalry, was Joseph Hamilton Daviess. Young, ambitious, and talented, he promised to be the rival in all that was good and great of the wisest of the land. Fate unhappily cut him off ere his prime, and he found, in the defense of the frontiers of the then West, a death deeply tragical, but such as befit warriors. He was killed at the battle of Tippecanoe, and there his remains were buried. The only monument that marks the spot is a huge old tree, where some compatriot in arms rudely carved J. D., that so sacred a place might not be forgotten.

It is strange that Indiana has been so remiss in her duty as not to erect upon the battle-field of Tippecanoe an appropriate monument to those heroes who fell defending her soil and the homes of her early inhabitants from savage incursion. We are glad to see that the attention of the Legislature of that State is being called to this neglect.

The New York State Register is exposing the fraudulent and mischievous adulterations of liquor practised by dealers in that city. A bottle of the best brandy, labelled Old Otard, vintage of 1803, was found, on analysis, to be only common American whisky flavored with what is called oil of cognac. a most deadly poison. Genuine liquors now bear so high a price, that the temptation to fraud is very great, and the Providence Journal is not far from the truth when it says: "The safest thing to buy is American whisky, which is so much cheaper than other liquors that it is not so likely to be imitated, and upon which a man may make a brute of himself at a moderate expense, and contrive to kill himself in a few years."

Rev. Theodore Parker, in a late discourse delivered in Boston, defined his position on the Temperance question. He said that he was originally an advocate of the Washingtonian system. He was afterwards induced to give his countenance and support to the laws recently passed upon that subject, but, on a review of the whole ground, he felt convinced that, so far as the laws of Maine and Massachusetts were concerned, they had not effected the desired object. He was still strongly in favor of the Washingtonian mode of warfare, and might also favor a system of licensing, if a law of that character, with proper restrictions and regulations, could be adopted.

PROGRESS OF THE BIG SANDY RAILROAD, -This enterprise has acquired something of local interest to our citizens since the subscription to its capital of $100,000 by the Louisville and Frankfort Company. We are glad to hear of its progress. At the eastern end from the town of Ashland the locomo tive and cars are running a distance of ten miles bringing in iron and coal. The track is ready for the rails ten miles further, and only awaits the iron which is at Cincinnati detained by the suspension of navigation.

The United States Navy, in November, 1856, consisted of 11 ships of the line, 13 frigates, 19 sloops-of-war, 3 brigs, 1 schooner, 7 screw steamers of the first class, 1 of the second class, 2 of the third class, 3 side wheel steamers of the first class, 1 of the second class, 5 of the third class, 3 steam tenders, 5 storeships, and 1 permanent receiving vessel. Total, 75 vessels, carrying 2,243 guns.

The Gallipolis Journal mentions the fact that in our Jefferson circuit court Jacob Kimmel, Dennis Younger, and Jas. McMullen, charged with felony, had forfeited their bail, and says that one of them has been promenading the streets of that town for two or three weeks endeavoring to drink all the whisky in the place.

THE CALIFORNIA DEBT .- The late California papers contain a letter from Governor J. Neely John son, of that State, in which he holds the following encouraging language to the creditors of the State in view of the recent decision of its Supreme Court declaring most of the State indebtedness to have been unconstitutionally created. The latter was ressed to a hanking bears date on the 19th of December:

bears date on the 19th of December:

The position we are made to occupy by this decision of our suprene court, I greatly fear, will destroy all confidence in our integrity for the time being. You ask, "What eucht to be done?" "What will be done by the people of the State in relation to the existing indebtedness so declared illegal?" My answer to both questions is, "pay it." I shall urgently present at the forthcoming session of the Legislature to that body the propriety and necessity of speedily passing a law ratifying and adopting our funded debt already created, and to make ample and certain provision of means to pay interest and principal as it may mature; this law to be submitted to a vote of the people at our next general election, (in September), and the result cannot be a matter of doubt. The people will ratify it. There is among the mass of the people, the press, and the Legislature elect but one sentiment, "Pay what we have already contracted to pay, but go in debt no more." Such are my own views; and you may be assured I shall employ my utmost efforts in accomplishing such desirable results. I will likewise add that, from the ample precautions adopted by our State Treasurer, I presume no difficulty will be experienced in meeting the payment of the interest on the State debt which matures the first of the ensuing month; neither is it probable, nowthinstanding the decision referred to, that any delay will occur in meeting the payment of the interest on the first of July, as the greater part of such interest money has already been paid into the State Treasurer, and will be appropriated by the Treasurer to the specific purposes for which the collection was made.

Curious Application of Photography—Inter-

CURIOUS APPLICATION OF PHOTOGRAPHY-Interesting to Ladies .- A Paris correspondent of the New York Times furnishes the following paragraph in one of his graphic letters:

One of the richest proprietors of the quarter Beaujou of this city is so jealous of the beauty of his wife that he mever yet called in a doctor, even in the most critical moments of illness or suffering through which she had to pass. But lately a violent phlegmonous inflammation declared itself in the side of the handsome patient, in the presence of which the ordinary female physician of the family and the nurse declared themselves incompetent. This time the intervention of a doctor was imperative. But inasmuch as the disease was entirely exterior, the husband, who occupies himself a little as an amateur with photography, conceived the idea of taking an exact likeness of the seat of the malady, then to celor it and carry it to the doctor. This was done; the doctor examined the photograph with a microscope and prescribed. Every morning a new proof of the disease was sent to the doctor, who judged thus derisu of its decline—the patient got well. When the hour for settling the bill arrived, the husband, as economical as jealous, endeavored to diminish it, pretending that he ought not to pay for simple consultations the same price as for visits at the bedside. But by the advice of a friend he was made to understand that he had better settle the affair amicably with the doctor, otherwise the latter, who held his photographs, might some day make his wife figure in a book of pathology for general circulation. The friend's advice was adopted.

Dinston of Wisconsia.—The Ripon "Home" has a forcible article on the subject of dividing Wisconsia. It proposes to run a line due west to the St. Croix from where the Michigan line strikes the State of Wisconsia, west of Lake Michigan, and embracing all the region north to the British Possessions, which, all the region north to the British Possessions, which, it says, would form a State of ample dimensions, besides possessing all the requisites necessary for a rich and dense population. The present capital is too far from the northern portion of the State for purposes of legislation, while a division would tend to build up a commercial emporium upon the shores of Lake Superior, which would vie with any in the West. The subject is a vast and important one, and it is possible that such a result will follow before many years.—Mdwaukee Daily Wisconsin. THE VARIETIES.

The proprietors of the People's line of steamboats of New York were somewhat surprised, a short time since, at the receipt of $5,000, without further explanation than a statement that it was the amount of which a former employee of the company had wrongfully deprived them, and which his conscience and his after prosperity prompted him to re-

In Worcester, Mass., it appears that, during the twelve months just closed, the fire department has been called out but twelve times, and of that twelve only two were for buildings in flames, the loss of which was less than $500 for both fires. Worcester is a city of 25,000 inhabitants.

The Lock Haven (Pa.) Democrat says that two tudents, from Lewisburg, took a trip to their homes. in Clinton county, a few days ago, which they reached by skating on the canal, a distance of sixty miles, in six hours.

An Irishman in Leechburg, Armstrong county, Pennsylvania, on New Year's day, not being in possession of a gun, pistol, or blunderbuss, undertook to convert a pair of candle-molds into the requisite to convert a pair of candle-molds into the requisite noise-making machine. He placed a heavy charge of powder in one of the tubes, wadding it down in the usual manner, to make a "loud crack," and, applying his cigar to the end of it, the machine exploded loud enough. Instead of discharging, it recoiled, penetrating his brain and killing him instantly.

John Hope, Esq., of Edinburgh, has borne the expenses of the temperance movement in Scotland. In the nine years past, or since the year 1847, he has expended of his own money £12,000 or $60,000.

In the Supreme Court of New York, before Judge Davies, the jury in the case of Laughlin Lawler vs. the city gave plaintiff a sealed verdict of $2,500. This was for being thrown from his wagon and injured in consequence of a hole being left open in South street.

A new direction is given for the extravagance ladies, by some importations. These consist of shell combs, in complete sets, for the toilet and the hair, enclosed in morocco cases lined with white velvet enclosed in morocco cases lined with white velvet, like a set of jeweled ornaments, to which they may be compared without exaggeration. The sets contain seven or eight combs, and each is inlaid with tiny gold stars, somewhat like the beautiful enamiseled watches so much in vogue. The shell combs for the back of the head are exquisite, being as pure and transparent as amber, and carved with great genius and skill.

How the German Ladies Do.—The ladies in Germany have an odd way, too, of keeping their skirts from under their feet. They put a belt—often a plain narrow leather strap—about the hips, an inch or two below the waist, and draw the dress up a little. The strap holds it. If a lady is going out on the dirty street in bad weather, ten to one you will see her produce from a pocket the invaluable old leather strap, catch up her garments just out of old leather strap, catch up her garments just out of the reach of the mud, and fasten them so. By this contrivance, her hands are left at liberty, and her clothes protected.

A Boston paper accounts for a portion of the audience always leaving a concert room or theater just before the close of the last piece or scene, by supposing that they are servants who have only received permission to stay out a part of the evening.

"I beg your pardon," said the kicker, "I took you re the Duke de la Tremonille."

The Duke was very handsome—the man was very plain; he was gratified by the mistake under which he believed he had suffered, shook himself, smiled, bowed, and went on his way.

Extensive Heating Apparatus.—A gentleman named Hull proposes to lay a steam pipe, six inches in diameter, from New York to Troy, and throughout the line of the Erie canal, by means of which he expects to keep the navigation open, by preventing the formation of ice in the Hudson or canal. He is nettitioning the State Legislature for negroissing to petitioning the State Legislature for permission to levy tolls for the support of his project. A branch pipe to New York harbor might be some benefit just now in keeping the navigation open.

An Illinois lawyer, defining a thief, wound up his speech to the jury in behalf of his injured client with the following rousing appeal: "True he was rude—so air our bears. True he was rough—so air our buffalers. But he was a child of freedom; and his answer to the despot and tyrant was, that his home was on the bright setting of the sun."

It is now gravely proposed not to deepen but to fill up the Harlem river at New York, so as to extend the city when necessary in that direction. Sixty years ago there was sixty feet depth of water present site of the Tombs, and it is not so nee Canal street and its vicinity was a running stream.

A New Use FOR Hoops .- The Albany Transcript

is responsible for the following: Recently a gentleman and lady of a neighboring city were enjoying a sleigh ride when one of the traces was broken beyond all hope of repair, and at a point where no assistance could be had. In this emergency the lady produced from her expander a good cotton rope sufficient to make another. Things were fixed and the party moved on. So much has been said against hoops, that, as a matter of justice, we give publicity to this evidence in their favor. Recently a gentleman and lady of a neighboring

We take the following interesting sketch of the author of "Afraja" from Bayard Taylor's last letter to the Tribune:

I was fortunate in having a letter to Theodor Muegge, the author of "Afraja" and "Eric Randal," When I called at his residence, according to a previous appointment, a pretty little girl of seven or eight years odd opened the door. "Is Herr Dr. Muegge at home?" I asked. She went to an adjacent door and cried out, "Father, are you at home?" "I were a sturdy voice; and presently "I asked." "enewed a sturdy voice; and presently Muegge at home?" I asked. She went to an adjacent door and cried out. "Father, are you at home?" "Ja woh!" answered a sturdy voice; and presently a tall, broad-shouldered, and rather handsome man of over forty years made his appearance. He wore a thick, brown heard, spectacles, was a little bald about the temples, and spoke with a decided North-German accent. His manner at first was marked with more reserve than is common among Germans; but I had the pleasure of meeting him more than once, and found that the outer shell covered a kernel of good humor and good feeling.

Like many other authors, Mugge has received hardly as much honor in his own country as he deserves. His "Afraja," one of the most remarkable romances of this generation, is just beginning to be read and valued. He was entirely unacquainted with the fact that it had been translated in America, where five or six editions were sold in a very few mouths. I could give him no better evidence of its success than the experience of a friend of mine, who was carried thirteen miles past his home, on a New Haven railroad train, while absorbed in its pages. He informed me that the idea of the story was suggested to him during his residence at Tromsoe, on the Norwegian coast, where, among some musty official records, he found the minutes of the last trial and execution of a Lapp for witcheraft, about a century ago.

This Lapp, who was a sort of chieftain in his clan, about a century ago.

This Lapp, who was a sort of chieftain in his clan, had been applied to by some Danish traders to furnish them with good wind during their voyage. He sold them breezes from the right quarter, but the vessel was wrecked and all hands drowned. When asked, during his tri.1, whether he had not furnished asked, during his tri., whether he had not turnished a bad instead of a good wind, he answered haughtily: "Yes, I sold them the bad wind, because I hated them, as I hate you, and all the brood of thieves who have robbed me and my people of our land." I referred to the character of Niels Helgestad, and spoke of his strong resemblance, in many respects, to one of our Yankee traders of the harder and coarser kind. Mugge assured me that I would find many of the same type still existing, when I should visit the Lofoden isles. He spent a summer among the scenes described in "Afraja," and his descriptions are so remarkably faithful that Alexander Ziegler used the book as his best guide in going over the same ground this year.

ANECDOTE OF JOHN RANDOLPH,-All who have read the life of this great man will remember the great importance he attached to correct pronunciation. His biographer, Mr. Garland, records the fact of his correcting Dr. Parish twice in his manner of pronouncing words, while the doctor was reading him a short article the day before his death; and that, when the doctor hesitated about adopting Mr. Randolph's mode of pronunciation, the dying man exclaimed, in his usual impatient and absolute manner: "Pass on, sir, pass on; there can be no doubt about it." This had seemed to me to be doubt about it." This had seemed to me to be slightly colored by the biographer, but the accompanying incident convinced me that it was but the ruling passion strong in death. When Tuzewell was at the zenith of his fame, on one occasion he made a speech at the bar, surpassing even himself in eloquence. On finishing, Randolph approached him and complained bitterly, with an oath, that it was fated that nothing human should be perfect. Tazewell, who was receiving impassioned congratulations from his friends, asked Randolph what he meant. His questioner, with his usual acerbity, indignantly demanded: "Why did you not say 'hor-t-zon,' instead of 'hor-izon?' Were it not for that d—d barbarism, there would have been one perfect human barism, there would have been one perfect human

The Wandering Jew in New York.—A sensation was created in William street, on Tuesday morning, by the appearance of a man on the pave with a long floating beard, and dressed in loose pantaloons, with a turban on his head. He carried in his hand a little manuscript Hebrew book, out of which he read to the crowd that gathered around him. He represented himself as the veritable Wandering Jew. Nobody knows who he is or where he came from. A learned Jewish Rabbi was sent for to convers with him, which they did in the Hebrew language and the stranger was found to be perfect in his knowledge of that most difficult tongue. The Rabbi tested him in Arabic, in Phenician, and in the Sanscrit, but soon found that the aged stranger far surpassed him in intimacy with them all. The Rabbi invited him to his house; but, said the stranger, "nay, I cannot stop. The Crucified One of Calvary has pronounced the edict, and I may not rest. I must move on—ever on!" He was last seen on Thursday, but to where he has departed no one can the one can tell.

Strictures of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuance of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

Seminal Weakings.—Particular attention will be given to this disease and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of inconsiderate youth and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unfit for either business or society, and causing premature old age.

A Perfumed Breath.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath when, by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice, would not only render it sweet but leaves the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate their friends will never mention it. Pour a single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty-cent bottle will last a year.

A Brautiful Complexion may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan, pumples, and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Gold Medal Piano-Fortes, MANUFACTURED BY STEINWAY & SONS. D. P. FAULDS, Sole Agent in Southwest, 529 Main street.

Just received from the manufactory a splendid assortment of these justly celebrated instruments. They have been awarded the first prize gold media at the Crystal Palace (American Institute Fair), New York, in 1865 and 1866, and also at the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, in competition with the best makers in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. Among the judges were the first musical talent in this country, including Messra Gottschalk, Mason, Wellenhaupt, and others, who declare them to be the best square Plano-Fortes ever made in this country.

Country.

These instraments I fully warrant to stand in any climate. They can be had of me, with or without iron frame, at the manufacturers' prices.

Persons wishing a superb instrument should call and see those at my wareroems before purchasing elsewhere.

THE LADIES ARE BECOMING MORE AND MORE alive every year to the importance of Fur Wrappings, which proves most conclusively that this is a progressive age. There is nothing that does so effectually protect them against the consequences of this changeable climate as Furs, and there is nothing so comfortable, elegand, or durable. They can be had of HAYES, CRAIG, & CO, so cheap that it would be economy to purchase Fur instead of Velvet, Cloth, or Silk Cloaks.

We have still a few sets of Russian Sable, which we will dispose of so low that it would be an object to purchase them in mipadmmer.

FIRE IN NEW ALBANY .- On Friday evening the grocery store of James R. Cabb, in New Albany, was destroyed by fire; also, the adjoining furniture shop of Charles Knapp. The stocks of both were saved, and as the buildings were old frames the los was trifling.

The Attorney General of Indiana, in response to a resolution of the House of Representatives, has decided that the State is not responsible for the issue of the Gramercy and Shawnee Banks, nor of any other Bank.

We have received since Saturday Baltimor and Washington papers of Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, and New York papers of Monday and Wednesday. Nothing from Boston or Philadelphia.

Information has been received that Senator Sumner intends visiting France before many months or the purpose of recuperating his health.

The village of Meigsville, Ohio, was totally consumed by fire on Friday last.

THE NOMINATION OF JAMES O. HARRISON .- In a secret session of the United States Senate a few days since, the nomination of James O. Harrison of this State as Judge of the Supreme Court of Kansas was under consideration. The following proceedings were had:

Gen. Cass inquired what had become of the nomination of Mr. Harrison to supercede Judge Lecompte as Chief Justice of Kansas, which was sent into the Senate by the President some time since.

Mr. Toombs, as chairman of the committee, replied that the committee had not yet decided on what report they should make in relation to it.

Mr. Cass rejoined with considerable feeling that it was quite time some action should be taken on the

Mr. Toombs said that for himself, as far as he wa concerned, he was ready to report against it. He thought that it was an arbitrary assumption of authought that it was an arbitrary assumption of au-thority for the President to attempt to remove a member of the judiciary merely because his decision happened to be contrary to his (the President's) wishes. The judiciary should feel when giving their decisions that their place did not depend on their giving an opinion coinciding with the views of the Executive. The act of the President was such an exercise of power as should be checked by the

Mr. Cass replied that however the case might be with regard to the members of the Supreme Court of the United States, with regard to the judiciary of the Territories, the law had been settled by a decis-ion of the Supreme Court. It had been decided that the President had power to remove the Judges of

Mr. Toombs dissented from such a decision. If any such had been made he should consider it uncon stitutional.

The question was asked why the committee did not report one way or the other.

Mr. Toombs answered that they were waiting to their Judne Lecompte's defence.

There was some further discussion on the subject.

The general opinion seemed to be that the exercise of the power of removal by the President was constitutional under the circumstances.

stitutional under the circumstances.

The nomination of Mr. Spencer as Marshal of Kansas, in place of Donaldson, was also considered.

INDIANA AND ILLINOIS BANKS .- The Indianapolis Journal, of Saturday, says:

Brokers were making a run yesterday on the Central Bank. They found ample means on hand to redeem all outstanding notes. The circulation of the Central Bank is only about $40,000—the proprietors having been calling it in for a year past. The cry of Cincinnati brokers against the Central Bank and Bank of the Capitol is a silly and foolish that the contral Bank and Bank of the Capitol is a silly and foolish the contral Bank and Bank of the Capitol is a silly and foolish the contral Bank and Bank of the Capitol is a silly and foolish the capitol is a sill y and foolish the capitol is a silly and foolish the capitol is a sill y and foolish the capitol is a si artherace, except so far as it puts money in their pockets at the expense of the people.

Brokers from Chicago and other points in Illinois are here buying up Illinois money at a discount, which they will take home and have redeemed in coin. Holders of Illinois bank notes should not recrifice them see they are good and are taken by coin. Holders of filinois bank notes should not sacrifice them, as they are good, and are taken by our merchants at par. This game of brokerage should be stopped. It is making money by the few at the expense of the many. We hope our Legislature will do something to drive every broker out of the State, and keep them from returning.

The Lefavette Courier says concerning the assets

The Lafayette Courier says concerning the assets of the Shawnee Bank:

It is reported that the assets of the Shawnee, valued at par funds, is something less than $700, while its liabilities for protested drafts and deposits will amount to over $28,-000. On the night before the bank broke, Nexsen and Wholock took from the concern nearly all of its available means. They were seen to go off with carpet-bass full, but the citizens supposed it was the customary exchange. All the paper of the Illinois Free Banks is taken at par in Chicago excepting the Stock Security Bank of Danville. A portion of the securities of this bank are California State Stocks. The issues of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Indianapolis are redeemed by the Exchange Bank at Greencastle. The amount in circulation is but a few dollars over $500.

COMMERCIAL.—Of the provision market, the Cincinnati Gazette of Saturday says:

There were purchasers for provisions at previous rates, though for present delivery bulk meat was not in demand, and the symptoms were not altogether favorable to holders. Buyers direct their attention chiefly to lots for future delivery. Moss Pork was in demand at $18, but it was held higher. A round lot of Clear Pork sold, we understand, at $20. Lard was not quite so saleable as previously noticed, but prices remain at 11½ @12c for prime barrel and keg.

The New York Journal of Commerce of Wednes

Dork is easier, with sales of 534 bbls at $19 87½ for old mess, $20 87½ @$21 for new mess, the inside rate for city made; and $17 87½ @$18 for prime. Dressed hogs are selfing at 9½@9½c. Beef is buoyant, and repacked is higher, with sales of 1,300 bbls (including 1,000 Ohio mess to arrive), at $10 50@$12 50 for country mess, $9 25@$10 for prime, and $15 00@$15 50 for repacked Western. Prime mess boef is more active, with sales of 975 tos Cleveland at $25. Beef hams are firmer, with sales of 200 bbls at $20@$21, the latter rate for choice. Bacon is quiet; we quote long ribbed middles at 10½, and clear do at 11c. Cut meats are scarcely as firm; 140 cases were sold at 10@10½ for hams, and $@$% for shoulders. Lard is firm, with sales of 625 tos and bbls at 13½ 312.

KILLED AND WOUNDED AT GRANADA .- The following is a list of the persons killed and wounded under Gen. Henningsen's command during the recent actions in Granada:

Killed, or Died of their Wounds.—Licut. O'Neil, Lieut. Price, Lieut. Hite, (acting captain), Serg't Brans, (acting licutenant), Capt. Hesse, Lieut. Cahart, Lieut. THE CAMELS AT WORK .- The San Antonio Time

The camels, twenty-two in number, have just passed through our city, loaded with about 600 lbs. each, returning to their place of rendezvous, which is some seventy miles from here. There are dromedaries also with them, and seated on the top of these camels and dromedaries are Arabs and Turks, dressed in their own costumes, of their own country. Texas is a great country, and San Antonio is a great

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.

The steamer James Adger left San Juan on the 13th, put into Key West and was detained there 32 hours. The purser reports that the cholera had disappeared from the Isthmus. There was little sickness and no deaths on the Adger.

The sloop of war Cyane is at Aspinwall.

Walker is represented as in better condition, having 1,200 able-bodied men at Rivas, well supplied with ammunition and provisions. Col. Lockeridge, with 300 men, was still waiting at Punta Arenas for the completion of the steamer, to be ready about the 17th.

The Adger encountered great fields of ice on her homeward passage, between latitude 37 and 39. The passengers by the Adger give gloomy ac-counts of Walker's situation. The seizure of the transit route and steamboats by

Spencer is confirmed. Spencer states openly that he acted in behalf of Vanderbilt. No injury was offered to the passengers in the captured boats, but they were escorted to Greytown, where the steamer was boarded by the officers from a British man-of-war, who ordered the baggage of the men to be put off immediately

Spencer kept the American flag flying from his teamer, although he made captures in the name of Costa Rica.

President Mora, of the Costa Rican governm

President Mora, of the Costa Rican government, had issued a proclamation granting a pardon to Walker's men, and a free passage back to the States. Many of Walker's men, both officers and privates, were deserting. They all tell hard stories of their sufferings from hunger and sickness.

Walker was still st Rivas, with 600 men; another account sava 1 200 Spencer states that the Costa Ricans have 1,500 posted along the route. They are also in force at Seraqui, and have guns posted on both shores. The report that General Henningsen had fought his way out of Granada and joined General Walker is confirmed, as is also the rumor that Gen. Chilton, with a large body of men, had pronounced for Wal Walker, it is said, retook Rivas without the loss of a man. Capt. Saunders, with his rifles, had advanced to Leon, to occupy that post.

The foregoing dispatch is made up from statemente of several returned Nicaraguans, who give very conflicting stories. The New York Journal of Commerce, of Wednesday evening, says:

nesday evening, says:

The detentions of the mails in all directions has led to great irregularity in the payment of bills whose drawers were at a distance from the city, and there is a large pile of notes in the hands of the notaries.

There is no change in the money market; we notice a good supply of prime short paper offering at 8½,30, and some of the banks have taken short lines from outside brokers at 7 per cent.

The stock market opened firmly at the full advance of yesterday for most descriptions, and in some descriptions and in some instance at a further improvement.

Foreign exchange is at a stand-still, waiting for the mails. The moment that money becomes easier, the demand for exchange will doubtless be more active, and if this were the only influence, we should expect a material advance in rates. But there is another element in the calculation. It is well known that there is emparatively a large stock of cotton held in this country and that there has been a strife between the speculators and the English spinners as to which should first give way.

A little while ago it appeared as if the turn was in favor of Manchester, but later advices show a short-supply there, and a necessity for immediate purchases. If money were easy here there can be no question that the cotton holders would win, but it is now a close game. Whichever way it is decided, when the stock is sold it must make a large supply of foreign exchange, and if sold at once, the pressure of so many bills would inevitably lead to lower rates.

[Special Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] The Kansas Judgeship—Trouble in the Camp—On Good Word for Congress—Mail Steamers, etc.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18, 1857. Although several weeks have elapsed since the President of the United States removed Judge Le compton (the late Chief Justice of the Jupreme Court of Kansas), no action has yet been taken on the nomination of his successor, James O. Harrison, of Kentucky. The subject still "hangs fire" in the Senate; the Committee on the Judiciary, who have the matter in charge, not having reported upon the nomination. The friends of the administration have shown not a little anxiety to have final action but shown not a little anxiety to have final action, but the committee are waiting to hear what Judge Lecompton has to offer in his own defense. The Judge, however, in a letter recently written to a friend in his native town (Cambridge, Maryland,) says he has no defense to make for his conduct in releasing
Hayes, the murderer, on bail; but justifies himself, at least to his own satisfaction, in the premises. If is understood that Lecompton has not proffered any is understood that Lecompton has not proffered any explanation to the administration, leaving it to take explanation to the administration, leaving it to take its own course.

Speaking of Kansas, it may here be stated that Governor or ex-Governor Robinson, of that Territory, has just arrived in the city. He visited the President's house on Friday night, on the occasion of the first public reception of the season, but took care not to follow the example of the numerous guests in paying their respects to the Chief Magistrate. In addition to this freesoil Governor, we also trate. In addition to this freesoil Governor, we also have in our midst Gov. Reeder, who, it is known, is here to contest the seat in the House held by Gen. Whitfield, as the Delegate from Kansas. Other Kansas folks have made their appearance in the metropolis, and thus the Territory is fully represented at the seat of government.

Whatever may be the "short-comings" of the present Congress in other respects, the members deserve credit for their attention to private bills. The decisions of the Court of Claims on numerous ap-plications have facilitated the action of the two houses, although the latter have not, in all cases, sanctioned the conclusions of that tribunal.

The several contractors for carrying the mails of the United States in ocean steamers are much frightened just now in consequence of the House Committee on the Post-Office and Post-roads having under consideration a proposition to abolish favorlitsm, and give the bids to the lowest bidders. As millions of dollars are annually drawn from the treasury to and give the bids to the lowest bidders. As millions of dollars are annually drawn from the treasury to meet the expenses of ocean mail transportation, a sharp appetite for the spoils creates no astonishment. The telegraph has already informed you of the sudden illness of Mr. Giddings, who, having been engaged in earnest debate on a private bill, on Saturday, was seized with atrophy of the heart. The eld man had become unnecessarily excited while explaining a point of law. On the former occasion (when he fell to the floor) he had been discussing the "African" question, and then it was an apoplectic attack. The House was thrown into the highest possible excitement; the spectators in the galleries and lobbies participating in it. At first it was thought that Mr. Giddings was on the eve of his final departure; the scene reminding one of the time when John Quincy Adams fell in the same part of the hall. As in that case, Mr. Giddings was carried to the Speaker's room, where physicians administered to his necessities. Much as members of Congress differ from one another politically, their conduct was to his necessities. Much as members of Congress differ from one another politically, their conduct was creditable to them on this occasion, all of them seemed to be, as they doubtless were, deeply affected by the illness of the senior member of the House, and evinced a readiness to do whatever lay in their power to afford assistance. The apprehensions of his friends were much relieved in the evening, when the sufficiently regired to admit of his being carried.

his friends were much relieved in the evening, when he sufficiently revived to admit of his being carried to his lodgings, in the neighborhood of the capitol.

The Columbia Typographicai Society of the District of Columbia celebrated their forty-second anniversary last night. There was a full attendance of members of the craft. The arrangements for the supper were on temperance principles; an example which might with profit be always followed on festive occasions. It was stated in the course of a brief speech by a gentleman present, that this Society had given to Washington no less than six Mayers, who had well performed their work. Among those worhad well performed their work. Among those wor-thies were Mr. Gales and Mr. Seaton, (the editors of the National Intelligencer), Gen. Roger Weightman, and Col. Peter Force. The sorts have not yet run and Col. Peter Force. The sorts have not yet run out. The printers, among other toasts, remembered the fair sex in the manner following: "Woman—may her virtues ever occupy more space shan her skirts, and her faults a less type than her bonnet."

American Colonization Society-Its Condition and Prospects, etc.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20, 1857. The annual meeting of the American Colonization The annual meeting of the American Colonization Society is to take place this evening. The report, which will be submitted, states at length the present condition and prospects of that organization, and contains much information interesting to the friends of the enterprise. Many of our citizens and strangers remember with pleasure the past celebrations of the society when Henry Clay presided over its deliberations, on which occasions thousands thronged the place of meeting to hear his opening address, fraught as it was with stirring eloquence and burnfraught as it was with stirring eloquence and burnfraught as it was with stirring eloquence and burn-ing enthusiasm in behalf of the experiment in the initiation of which he took so distinguished a part, and which he lived to see ripen into a practical fact— the establishment of a flourishing Republic on the coast of Africa, penetrating with its civilizing bless-ings that benighted portion of the globe. Ater speaking of what Maryland, Virginia, and other States have done, the report continues: "Nor has Kentucky failed to emulate the example of the has Kentucky failed to emulate the example of the ancient Dominion from which she sprang, but touched by the spirit of her immortal son, the echo of whose voice will die only when liberty herself expires, in February last, by the vote of a large majority of her representatives, appropriated $5,000 annually, without limitation of time, to aid the colonization of such free persons of color within her limits as might desire to find a home in Liberia."

The increasing value of the African trade deserves public attention. While in 1854 that of the United States to Africa, concernly, was $3 146,522, the trade

States to Africa, generally, was $3,146,522, the trade of Great Britain rose to $23,000,000. It is estimated that more than one hundred ships, many of them of a thousand tons burden, regularly trade between Great Britain and the coast of Africa, while one or more steamers leave London monthly for Liberia and other commercial communities north and south of that Republic. France, Spain, Denmark, Portu-gal and Germany participate in this trade, but the interests of England surpass those of all the other European States.

The financial statement shows several facts, among which stands prominent, that the whole amount of receipts during the past year was $81,388 41; the expenditures $79,394 79, leaving a balance in the treasury of $1,993 62, and an indebtedness of $24, expenditures $79,394 79, leaving a balance in the treasury of $1,993 62, and an indebtedness of $24,-136 74. The whole amount from legacies is $14,-675 84. Of this, however, $5,000 is the balance of the Graham legacy for the support of schools in Liberia, which is invested for that purpose, and was, therefore, not a part of the Society's available working funds. One of the most encouraging features in the operations of the year is the large amount, $32,-676 09, received in payment of the expenses of emigrants; another is, that the auxiliary State Societies have paid the Society in cash $9,799 75.

The Secretary, (the Rev. R. R. Gurley,) in the conclusion of his report, says: "Thankful to the Supreme Ruler in all human affairs for the measure of success which has attended our efforts, let us see the wisdom of His Providence, both in the continuation of causes, as well as in the ordering of particular events. In the late discoveries of the great geographical features of Africa, her various and abundant resources, her populous tribes and nations; in the multiplication of missionary stations and missionary laborers on nearly all parts of her coast and far into the interior; in her wrongs and sins, her misery and her capacity; in her dark and bloody history, her exiled children, and her opening gates, let us discern signs of her redemption, and motives for our beneficence. For long ages is our work. It may stand while the world stands. Let the people for our beneficence. For long ages is our work. It may stand while the world stands. Let the people of the United States see and feel its glory," etc.

The following is the table of emigrants, showing the number sent to Liberia by the American Cold nization Society and its auxiliaries, from each State, from 1820 to 1856 inclusive:

ber born free, 3,676; number purchased their freedom, 326; number emancipated in view of emigrat ing to Liberia, 5,500.
